

1. Discuss how events in the story emphasize the idea that material possessions are temporary and relationships are more valuable?
2. Explain how the concept of sacrifice is portrayed through the characters' actions in "The Last Bargain."
3. How did the story highlight the importance of valuing human connections over personal gains?
4. What moral lesson can be drawn from the choices made by the protagonist in the story?
5. Analyze how the story "this is Jody's fawn" challenges the notion of possessing animals as pets and instead promotes the idea of letting them live freely in their natural habitats.
6. How does the relationship between Jody and Fawn exemplify the bond between humans and animals?